CURTAIN RISES IN COUNTY FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

George White, Democratic Candidate for Governor, To Be Here Tuesday.

MARION TO SEE CARAVAN

Republicans Open Drive with LaRue Rally Friday Night.

While the Republican party is planning to open its county campaign with a rally at LaRue Friday night, the Democratic executive committee today announced that its first rally will be held here next Tuesday night with George White of Marietta, candidate for governor, as the principal speaker.

William G. Pickrel of Dayton, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Carl W. Smith of Kenton, candidate for congress from the Eighth district, are other speakers on the program. Robert L. Buckley of Cleveland, candidate for U. S. Senator, will be unable to come here due to a previous engagement in Toledo, it was reported.

Preceding the rally, a dinner in honor of White and the other state candidates will be held in the Hotel Marion at 6 p. m., at which 150 persons are expected to be present. Reservations may be made at the Democratic headquarters either in person or by telephone. The number is 2829.

White and the other campaigners will be here as part of a Democratic caravan which last week began its invasion of the state. It will come here from Morrow county and will be in Kenton, Hardin county, the following day. W. W. Durbin of Kenton is scheduled to be chairman at the various meetings.

Brown, Mouser to Speak

The Republican rally at LaRue Friday night will feature Clarence J. Brown, secretary of state, as the principal speaker along with Congressman Grant E. Mouser Jr. of Marion, Miss Gertrude Jones of Findlay, district committee woman, and Dallas Sullivan of Richwood, candidate for state senator from the combined thirteenth and thirty-first districts.

The Republican Women's Glee club of Marion will sing at the rally, as well as at a Wyandot county rally at Upper Sandusky Thursday.

Similar rallies will be held at Caledonia on Oct. 17 and at Martel and Prospect on later dates, R. E. Prettyman, executive committee chairman, said today. A big rally with Ralph Cole of Findlay, state campaign speaker, as the principal attraction, will be held in the Star auditorium here on Tuesday night, Oct. 21.

A delegation of 25 Marion county Republicans will go to Columbus tonight to attend the rally in the Hartman Theatre at which Vice-President Charles Curtis will speak.

WOMAN FLIER NEAR GOAL

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 8—Laura Ingalls, St. Louis aviatrix, hopped off from here shortly after 6 a. m. today in her attempt to hang up a new trans continental flight record. Miss Ingalls expects to reach Los Angeles late today.

RESCUE CREWS ENDANGERED

FIRE FAR UNDERGROUND

Eastern Ohio Mine Swept by Flames, Trapping Trio of Workers.

By The Associated Press

DALTON, O., Oct. 8—Rush E. Hiller, 47, Canton undertaker died shortly before noon today from inhaling smoke in an attempt to rescue three men trapped in the mine of the Dalton Coal company, two miles south of here.

Physicians said Hiller was overcome by monoxide gas after penetrating a short distance into the workings with a rescue crew which was turned back by the heavy smoke emitted by fire burning to a distance of about 300 feet into the mine. The fire had destroyed all buildings around the mouth of the workings before it was discovered.

Those trapped were Robert Douglas, 50; Russell Shanklin, 45, and Harry Sword, 50, all residing on farms near the mine.

Fears were expressed by rescue workers that the three men were suffocated, although they saw a possibility that the miners might have bratticed themselves off in a chamber away from the smoke and gas caused by an explosion and fire at the mouth.

Dense smoke poured from the mouth of the mine as rescue crews attempted to enter to search for the missing men. The fire, they said, had eaten 300 feet into the workings and was throwing a dense black smoke over the opening.

The fire was discovered by several farmers at 5 a. m. today but by that time it had destroyed the main buildings around the mouth of the mine.

Officials said danger of a cave-in of the mine was imminent as the fire had eaten away the cribbing structure near the mouth. Deputy sheriffs were summoned to keep the crowd from attempting to enter the workings.

Firemen from Dalton and Massillon answered the emergency summons to aid in extinguishing the flames. The fire, however, had burned into the opening before they reached the scene.

COURT HOUSE TOWER TO BE ILLUMINATED

Electric Floodlights To Be Installed by Electric Company.

Work will start within the next few days on the installation of a lighting system on the courthouse clock tower, following approval by county commissioners yesterday of plans and specifications for the system submitted by William P. Moloney, president of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co., which will supply the necessary current.

The system will consist of 16 projectors, each with a 500 watt flood-lighting lamp, and four other projectors with lamps of 250 watts. The latter four projectors will have red and amber lenses. Projectors will play upon the entire clock tower and will enable the four faces to be seen clearly for a considerable distance, it is said.

Cost of the equipment and its installation will be $783, and the charge for the current will be $75 each month. The contract will extend over a 10-year period.

Lights will be turned on and off at the same time as city street light, according to the contract.

Commissioners have been making plans for the lighting system since July, they said today. In recent years the present natural gas lighting system, which is from within the tower, has been too weak to enable people to see the clock's faces, they said.

TELEPHONE REFUND ORDERED BY JAN. 1

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS, Oct. 8—The Ohio Associated Telephone Co. operating in Marion and vicinity today was ordered by the state public utilities commission to return by Jan. 1, refunds from an increased rate collected between Aug. 3, 1925 and Sept. 23, last. The commission held that the rate collected under bond by the company was unreasonable.

CITY BUSSES CARRY 2,400,000 PASSENGERS

In Two Years Cars Travel 850,000 Miles, 34 Times Around Earth.

Marionites have ridden 850,000 miles, or the equivalent of 34 times around the earth at the equator, in busses of the Marion Rapid Transit, Inc., since the bus service began here two years ago yesterday. This is shown in the records of Ray Maag, president and general manager of the company.

In two years, the fleet of busses has hauled 2,480,000 passengers. Twelve busses consumed 167,000 gallons of gasoline and 2,340 gallons of oil. In gasoline tax money, the firm has paid the state $6,680.

Business in the last 12 months has not equaled that of the first year, according to Maag. During the year ending yesterday, the company hauled 1,080,000 passengers, as compared with 1,400,000 passengers hauled during the preceding year.

The result has been that the company's expenses exceeded receipts by approximately $15,000. Receipts were $85,651.32 for the year, while expenses totalled more than $100,000.

In the preceding year, the company spent $100,000 and receipts for the period were $114,000. For the two-year period the company has just about broken even, according to Maag.

Cars in Good Shape

A fleet of 12 Yellow Coach busses have given Marionites service for the last two years, replacing the abandoned street car service Oct. 7, 1928. The huge busses, powered with Cadillac motors, consume a gallon of gasoline every five miles, and average 30,000 miles on six heavy duty tires.

The fleet is in good condition, each of the busses having traveled between 50,000 and 90,000 miles. The life of a coach is estimated at 500,000 miles.

More frequent trips will be made on various routes of the city when increased business justifies better service, according to Maag. No improved service can be offered when the company is not breaking even for the last 12-month period, he pointed out.

NEW CONQUESTS ARE CLAIMED BY REBELS

By The Associated Press

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguary, Oct. 8—Brazilian revolutionary sources today claimed that Bahia, third city of the republic, and the great state of that name, lying north of Rio De Janeiro, had joined the rebellion against the central government.

Colonel Atlaiva Osorio, commandant at Bahia, was said to have led the movement, success of which was considered of great importance to the revolution. Besides adding strength to the rebellion, it will facilitate movement of troops south for an attack on Rio De Janeiro.

TWO DAYS LEFT TO REGISTER

Friday and Saturday of This Week Last Chances To Become Eligible To Vote.

ALL VOTERS MUST ENROLL

Thirty-five Hundred Visit Polls on First Day; Go Early Is Plea.

Further opportunity to register and thereby become eligible to vote on Nov. 4 will be offered Marion voters Friday and Saturday, the last two days set aside by state law as permanent registration days this year.

Approximately 3,500 voters registered last Thursday, the first of the three days selected in the new state election code. This number represents about one-third of the total who will register, according to C. G. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the board of elections.

All Must Register

Registration for the primary in August has nothing to do with the permanent registration, Ritzler pointed out today. Voters who did not register last Thursday or who do not register Friday and Saturday of this week will be denied the right to cast their ballots on Nov. 4, he said.

"When Nov. 4 comes, no voter who failed to register will be permitted to cast a ballot," Ritzler said. "All who register will be listed in each precinct voting booth and if a voter's name isn't on that list, he can't vote."

Polls Open 1 to 9 P. M.

Polls in the city's 42 precincts will be open both Friday and Saturday from 1 to 9 p. m., for those who wish to register. The task of registration requires less than three minutes of each voter's time, it is pointed out.

"The board of elections emphasizes the necessity of early registration Friday and Saturday," Ritzler declared. "If housewives and business men don't register in the afternoon hours, it'll be a physical impossibility to handle the line of voters during the evening hours on those two days."

Voters who will not be in the city Friday and Saturday and who did not register last Thursday may do so at the board of elections at any time before Friday, according to Ritzler.

DRY ISSUE LEADS AS LAW BOARD MEETS

Prohibition Chief Question Before Commission in Reopening Sessions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—Prohibition today promised to be the focal point of the deliberations of the Wickersham commission on law observance and enforcement, which met for the first time since June to begin consideration of its final report to congress.

Members characterized the resumed sessions as probably the most important, with discussion of prohibition occupying first place on the agenda in importance.

That considerable divergence of view has developed among the membership on the question of whether the commission should make a recommendation regarding the Volstead act and the Eighteenth amendment was apparent when the full commission membership gathered for today's meeting.

No Forecast Made

No member of the commission would undertake to forecast what action would be taken on a demand to be made by Federal Judge Kenneth Mackintosh of Seattle, a member of the commission, that the report to congress make a definite declaration on whether the Volstead act is enforceable or should be repealed.

Chairman Wickersham is generally credited with a desire to "sidestep" this issue, and he is expected

Detroit Is Selected for Legion Convention

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 8—Detroit was selected for the 1931 national convention of the American Legion in a vote taken at the convention session here today. Los Angeles was a strong bidder for the convention and both rival cities sent representatives with certified checks for $25,000 to show they were ready to provide suitable entertainment.

CARDINALS TAMED IN SIXTH CONTEST; A'S WIN, 7 TO 1

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8 — Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon won another world's series championship by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals in the sixth contest, 7 to 1.

The Cardinals made a desperate stand today in an effort to even up the series. The A's won the first two games played here while the Cards took the next two in St. Louis. Monday the Mackmen went into the lead.

Play-by-play account of today's game follows:

First Inning

Cardinals: Douthit struck out swinging at a third strike, a curve. Adams rolled to Foxx and was out, unassisted. Watkins struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Athletics: Bishop lifted a fly to Frisch near second. Dykes walked. Cochrane hit to right field and Dykes scored. Cochrane went to third. It was a two-base hit. Watkins was charged with an error when the ball rolled through him. Simmons struck out, swinging hard at the third strike. Foxx walked. Cochrane scored on Miller's double to center. Foxx went to third. Watkins made a great play to hold the ball to a double. Moore hit a fly to Douthit on the first pitched ball. Two runs, two hits, one error, two left.

Second Inning

Cardinals: Frisch flied to Simmons, who made a running catch in deep center. Hafey lifted a high fly to Simmons in center. Bottomley struck out. It was his ninth strike out of the series. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Athletics: Boley rolled to Gelbert and was thrown out to Bottomley. Earnshaw struck out. Ball hit Bishop on the arm and he took first base. Bishop went to second when Wilson let the ball get away. It was a passed ball. Dykes got a base on balls for the second time. Cochrane fouled to Adams who ran nearly to the stands to make the catch. No runs, no hits, no errors, two left.

Third Inning

Cardinals: Wilson grounded to Dykes and was thrown out to Foxx. Gelbert flied to Simmons in center. Fisher batted for Hallahan. Fisher hit to left field for two bases. Douthit hit a roller to Boley and was thrown out at first. Grove went down to Athletics bull pen as the inning ended. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Fourth Inning

Cardinals: Simmons moved over to left field for the Athletics and Haas went to center. Adams struck out swinging at a fast ball. Watkins lifted a high fly to Dykes near third. Frisch hit into left field for one base. Hafey flied to Haas in center. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Athletics: Earnshaw struck out. Bishop walked. Dykes drove a home run into the lower deck of the left field stand and scored behind Bishop. It was a line drive. It sailed over Hafey's head among the spectators. Cochrane was out, Frisch to Bottomley, on a great play when the Cardinal captain knocked the ball down, fell with it and threw to first. Simmons grounded to Adams and was thrown out to Bottomley. Two runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Fifth Inning

Cardinals: Bottomley grounded to Bishop and was thrown out to Foxx. Wilson struck out. Gelbert flied to Haas in short center. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Athletics: Foxx doubled to center, it was a hard hit ball caroming from Frisch's glove. Miller bunted to Bottomley and was out to Frisch who covered first. It was a sacrifice. Foxx scored on Haas' sacrifice fly to Douthit. Holey flied to Watkins who ran in a few steps to take the catch. One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

Sixth Inning

Cardinals: Blades batted for Johnson. Blades struck out, swinging at a fast ball. Douthit fouled to Cochrane in front of the A's dugout. High batted for Adams. High bounded to Earnshaw and was thrown out to Foxx. Earnshaw leaped for the ball and got it in his gloved hand. High went to third base for the Cardinals. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Athletics: High playing third base, Lindsay went in to pitch for the Cardinals. Earnshaw flied to Hafey in left. Dykes hit into center for two bases. Bishop going to third, Bishop scored on Cochrane's sacrifice fly to Douthit. Dykes remained at second, Simmons lifted a fly to Watkins in right. One run, one hit, no errors, one left.

Seventh Inning

Cardinals: Watkins bounded to Bishop and was thrown out to Foxx. Frisch hit to Earnshaw and was thrown out to Foxx. Hafey hit into left field for two bases. Wilson fouled to Cochrane in front of stands. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Athletics: Foxx flied deep to Douthit in center. Miller fouled out to Wilson near the stands back of plate. Haas rolled to Lindsey and was thrown out to Bottomley. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Eighth Inning

Cardinals: Gelbert bunted to Foxx and was out, unassisted. Orsatti batted for Lindsay. Orsatti was out on a fast play by Foxx who took his smash by first and beat them to the bag. Douthit bounded to Boley and was thrown out to Foxx. Boley made a fast play, trapping the ball. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Athletics: Bell went in to pitch for St. Louis. Boley bounded to Gelbert and was thrown out to Bottomley. Earnshaw flied to Douthit who made a pretty running catch in deep center. Bishop rolled to Bell and was thrown out to Bottomley. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Ninth Inning

Cardinals: High hit into right field for one base. Watkins walked. Frisch lined to Foxx and Watkins was doubled at first. High remained at second. High scored on Hafey's two base hit to left. Bottomley walked. Wilson flied to Miller. One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

Nick Tells 'Em

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 8—I used to try to get what I thought would be some funny political angles over the radio, and it was awful hard.

But last night along came my old friend Nick Longworth on the air and hit on a humorous angle that I had never thought of and I bet none of you had either.

He blamed the Democratic party for the financial depression that is enveloping the world.

It's really the biggest advertisement that the Democratic party has ever had.

Why, if they were that important they wouldn't be Democrats. They would all be Republicans. But it was a new reason at that.

Did you ever notice, there has never been a year when alibis were so scarce?

Yours,

Will Rogers

THUGS ROB TRUCK DRIVER IN HOLDUP

Clifford Chalfant Victimized in $7 Stickup on Leader Street.

After a lull of several days, criminal activity in Marion broke out last night with reports of a holdup and the looting of an automobile, police reports show.

Three bandits in an automobile halted Clifford Chalfant of 589 Davids street under the Leader street viaduct early last night and robbed him of $7. Chalfant is a driver for the Dependable Messenger Service here. Police are searching for the men after obtaining a meager description of them from Chalfant.

Thieves forced their way into an automobile parked on Campbell street last night and escaped with red fox furs, a red and brown plaid auto robe, and a bunch of keys. The car and contents were the property of Wallace Moore of Upper Sandusky.

"In the American system, through free and universal education, we train the runners; we strive to give them an equal start; our government is the umpire of its fairness. The winner is he who shows the most conscientious training, the greatest ability, the strongest character.

"Socialism or its violent brother, bolshevism, would compel all the runners to end the race equally. It would hold the swiftest to the speed of the most backward. Anarchy would provide neither training nor umpire. Despotism or class government picks those who run and also those who win."

WHEN HENRY FORD said he must close his factories if prohibition came to an end, he was asked how he could run factories in England and other countries with no prohibition.

Today Mr. Ford announces that workers in his enormous British factory at Bagenham will not be allowed to drink "even a glass of beer at luncheon."

British reporters who asked how Mr. Ford proposed to keep Britons, that "never, never shall be slaves," from having their beer, he replied, "We shall attend to it in our own way," and would give no other answer.

The British will not take kindly to any effort to force upon them, in their own land, a prohibition that has not yet been forced upon Americans at home.

State President of Federation Announces Stand at Bucyrus Meeting.

By The Associated Press

BUCYRUS, O., Oct. 8—The Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs stands for prohibition and will employ its full strength to prevent repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, was the declaration today by Mrs. W. H. Schwartz of Portsmouth, state president of the group, who delivered the opening address before 500 women delegates who are attending the meeting of the middle-north district of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs here.

Mrs. Schwartz stated that the federation did not indorse wet advertisements which recently appeared in "The Buckeye" official state organ of the federation, and said that after the October issue there will be no political advertisements accepted by the publication as long as she is state president

ESTABLISH IDENTITY OF MURDERED BODY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—The woman's body found near the Lac Du Flambeau, Wis., Indian reservation last week has been positively identified as that of the missing Chicago bride, Mrs Cora Belle Hackett.

A Milwaukee dentist made the identification last night through filling in the teeth. At the same time it was determined definitely that the woman had been slain. A bullet had been fired into the back of the head. Pathologists said it would have been impossible for her to have fired the shot herself.

Identification of the body and discovery of the evidence that she had been murdered led today to intensification of the search for George W. E. Perry, of Cleveland, O., to whom she was married, June 16 last. Perry, who already was married, disappeared a month ago after turning over to his wife in Cleveland bags of clothing which police believed belonged to Mrs Hackett.

Mrs. Hackett became acquainted with Perry through a want-ad. They were last heard from late in June, honeymooning in the Lac Du Flambeau region.

RELEASE THREE

Columbus Police Center Murder Probe Around William Brannon.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8—Three suspects in the "liquor feud" murder of Carl P. Dominick, 21, former Ohio State university student, were at liberty today and police were centering their investigation around William Brannon, 21. Brannon was retained when the stories of the other three men coincided in every detail regarding the fatal shooting last Monday.

Police said that an eye-witness to the killing had offered evidence. The witness, they said, is a prominent east side woman whose name was withheld. She claims to have seen Dominick shot down from a speeding automobile shortly after he had made a delivery of several gallons of whisky.

MOBS STAGE BRAWL IN BOSTON STREETS

Police Gain Control After Night of Disorder and Street Battles.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 8—City and American Legion police controlled the downtown streets today after a night of disorder by mobs of hoodlums Several hundred persons were treated for minor injuries

Overturned automobiles, the ashes of a score of bonfires that had been built in downtown thoroughfares and on Boston common, and here and there a battered head, marked the passing of the rowdies who took advantage of the privileges extended the Legionnaires on a night of frivolity after the annual parade in connection with the national convention

At one time it seemed that the melee in Park square might gain the proportions of a vicious riot Dennis J. Lorden, heading a detail of federal agents, had arrested four local men for peddling liquor in the square. As he started marching his men away, the crowd, composed mostly of the toughs moved on him.

Fists began to fly and the agents had their backs to the wall when a squad of police forced their way through the crowd to rescue them Legion police, or "co-ops" held a lane open while the agents and their prisoners were brought to the comparative safety of a nearby street.

Success Rewards Scientist's Five-Year Quest for New Electric Generator Plan

By The Associated Press

MATANZAZ, CUBA, Oct. 7—Professor George Claude, French scientist and engineer, put nature to work here last night and kept forty 500-watt electric lamps burning for more than half hour.

The feat culminated five years of constant and unremitting effort and expenditure of about $2,000,000 of his own money to finance a scheme utilizing thermal differences in surface water from the gulf stream and water from 1,500 feet below the surface to generate steam, run a turbine, drive a dynamo and generate the electricity to light the lamps.

A gathering of engineers and scientific men saw the demonstration staged by Dr. Claude in his laboratory. He received with calm a chorus of congratulations on his achievement. Some said afterward the experiment conceivably would revolutionize the entire field of industrial power methods.

Dr. Claude first pumped warm water from the surface of Matanzas Bay, and then through a mile-long tube sunk 1,500 feet below the surface of the sea, from depths, the warm surface water was submitted to a vacuum and became steam, finally of sufficient power to turn the turbine.

From the turbine the steam was sent into a tank where the cold water condensed it, creating a new vacuum in which new steam could be generated as soon as the first vacuum was exhausted, the alternate process to be kept up indefinitely.

As the turbine gathered speed and finally attained several thousand revolutions a minute, it turned a dynamo and the electric lights began to glimmer and then burn brilliantly. The experiment was kept up long enough to convince even the most skeptical of success of the generative methods.

C. OF C. PLANS MEETINGS HERE

Columbus Attorney Will Be Speaker at First Event Friday.

In an effort to stimulate interest in the development of Marion and to put new life into activity within its own ranks, the Marion Chamber of Commerce Friday night will open a series of fall and winter meetings at the Marion club. Anyone interested is invited to attend any of these meetings.

A number of unusual programs have been arranged for these meetings by President Hoke Donithen.

Freeman T. Eagleson, former speaker in the house of the Ohio legislature and Columbus attorney, will speak on "The Individual, The Chamber of Commerce, and The City."

The next meeting, Nov. 10, will be featured by an address by Fred Lazarus Jr. of Columbus, director of the National Chamber of Commerce. His topic will be "Relations of the Retail Merchant and the Chamber of Commerce."

Reservations have been made for 100 persons to attend the opening meeting Friday at 6:30 p. m. A dinner will be served at $1 a plate.

FORMER COACH HERE ON AIR PROGRAM

Robert Burdette To Introduce Vice President Curtis from WLW.

Robert Burdette, former Harding High school football coach and now an announcer for station WLW, Cincinnati, will introduce Vice President Curtis when he speaks over WLW Thursday at 11 a. m. during his visit to Ohio.

Curtis will give a 20-minute talk on "George Rogers Clark" and will be part of a celebration in honor of the sesqui-centennial of the battle of Piqua, generally considered the most decisive battle in the conquest of the northwest territory.

The vice-president will speak from Wittenberg college at Springfield, where WLW will broadcast part of the celebration Friday afternoon.

Camel's mildness starts in the sun-drenched fields where the tobaccos grow. Only the choicest of the golden Turkish and mellow Domestic leaves are selected for Camels. Through every step of their cure and manufacture the delicate, sun-ripe fragrance of these tobaccos is scientifically preserved. And so Camels come to you mild and delightful—not flat and flavorless.

Francis Sate of Mansfield; ev. Fr. Carl Finsel of North Auburn; Rev. Fr. John Forster of Upper Sandusky; Rev. Fr. Rupert C. Goebel of Mansfield; Rev. Fr. Avitus Yons of Shelby Settlement; Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Maerker of Kelley's Island; Rev. Fr. Michael McFadden of Galion; Rev. Fr. Thomas Quinlan of Crestline; Rev. Leo Rhinartz of Bucyrus; Rev. Fr. William Sosong of New Washington; Rev. Fr. Leo Warth of Ashland.

Two Democratic Rallies Planned Saturday Night

MT. GILEAD, Oct. 8—Carl Roth of Kenton and John McConagny of Wooster will be the speakers at the Democratic rally to be held here and at Cardington Saturday night.

The meetings will be held at Cardington at 7 p. m. and in Levering hall in Mt. Gilead at 8:30 p. m.

BUCYRUS MEN BANKRUPT

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8—Bankruptcy petitions filed by Harry Shaw, laborer, and Edwin Greenick, mechanic, of Bucyrus, were being recorded in federal district court here today. Shaw listed liabilities of $611.38, assets of $150 and asked an exemption of the latter amount. Liabilities of $890 and assets of $81 were given by Greenick.

AUTO SALES SLUMP

BUCYRUS, Oct. 8—Sales of new automobiles by Crawford county dealers dropped to 54 during September, 15 less than sold during August. September 1930 sales were in sharp contrast to those of the same month 1929 when total new car sales for Crawford county were 122.

TO PRESENT CHAPTER

Miss Della Sampsell will present the first chapter of the study book "A Cloud of Witnesses," at the meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of Epworth M. E. church Thursday afternoon in the junior room of the church. Mrs. J. V. Wilson will conduct the devotionals and Mrs. Knox Dunlop will contribute a vocal solo. The social hour will be in charge of Mrs. John H. Clark's group.

Bishop William T. Manning, of New York, announces that $13,000,000 have already been expended on the Cathedral of St. John, the Divine, and that $10,000,000 are required to finish it. There must be a lot more religious enthusiasm in the metropolis than it has been credited with possessing.

And now the poultry trade has ordered an attack on the farm board. If these attacks are continued much longer, they are liable to arouse sympathy for the board. It's human nature to pull for the under dog.

Ford on Business Depression.

The medicine for what's ailing the country offered in "Moving Forward," Henry Ford's book, written in collaboration with Samuel Crowther, may prove a mere panacea, yet it contains much which is interesting and, in view of the success of Ford as a giant of industrialism, much will be accepted as valuable.

The Ford cure for depression, by which he says he means a period when men are out of work and unable to improve their standards of living, is quantity production of goods put out into the world, the service extending all along the line and embracing the making, the wages paid and the selling price, all of which, he holds requires far greater leadership than did old-time production.

The Ford belief is that lack of industrial leadership was responsible for the stock market panic of last year. The true cause "consisted in the complete stoppage of improvement in quality of good and in methods of manufacture, which in turn causes a stoppage in the increasing values of the purchasing money. There is bound to come a time when things are offered for sale at so much more than they are worth that the public will hesitate to buy them, and then will stop buying altogether and may even fall into a panic about what it has bought.

"No one has yet been born who can manage both to manipulate the market for its stock and also do business in such a way that it will be profitable. The two do not and can not mix."

The cardinal principles of industrialism, in Mr. Ford's view, are to make more and better goods as cheaply as possible and force them on the market; to strive always for higher quality and lower costs that there may be lower prices; to raise wages gradually, but continuously and not to cut them and to get the product as economically to the consumer as possible that he may reap the benefit of the low-cost production.

Mr. Ford sees a mutuality of interest between the employer and employe. He recognizes the right of a man to work, but his right to a job depends on his ability to render service. There is, he holds, no difference between the actual position of the employer and the employe, but yet the world fails to recognize this lack of difference. In times of unemployment, there is a widespread cry of "Give men work!" yet those uttering it would recognize the absurdity of employers parading at such times bearing banners inscribed "Give us orders!"

When wages are cut, the purchasing power of the country is diminished, and thus Mr. Ford holds that high wages must be recognized as a fundamental of a country's prosperity. He scouts the idea that overproduction was responsible for the depression which began to be manifest last fall. Genuine overproduction, he asserts, has never existed.

To Share Our Helium Supply.

Aeronautical engineers and experts, both here in America and abroad, are in practical agreement that the death toll in the R-101 disaster would have been largely, and possibly wholly, eliminated had the British dirigible used helium gas, which is neither explosive nor inflammable, rather than hydrogen, for buoyancy. This view is fortified by the fact that all those aboard who were able to break out of the airship and get away from the wreckage, with the exception of the one who subsequently died from burns, escaped with their lives.

In this connection, it is heartening to those whose faith in the humanitarian spirit of mankind is abiding to note the suggestions that the United States let down the bars to other nations, not so well favored as we are, to the use of helium gas.

"The disaster was undoubtedly due to the R-101 being inflated with hydrogen," said Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the navy department in deploring the horror. "The United States is the only country in the world possessing helium in unlimited quantities. The present law prohibits its exportation. I would urge the repeal of this law and allow it to be exported in time of peace to all nations, especially to the British and Germans, who had the vision and courage to carry on with rigid airships, despite disaster and the handicap and danger of hydrogen."

And right on the heels of this suggestion by Admiral Moffett for the repeal of the interdiction preventing the exportation of helium came Representative Fred A. Britten, of Illinois, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, with the announcement that he would introduce at the forthcoming session of congress a bill in line with the Moffett suggestion to remove the bar and give Great Britain, Germany and other foreign nations access to our supply of helium. Agreeing with Admiral Moffett that the lives of the passengers and crew of the R-101 in all probability would have been saved had it used helium instead of hydrogen, Mr. Britten said that "in time of peace it would be a proper and magnanimous act for this country to share its helium."

Speaker of the House Nicholas Longworth, Minority Leader John Garner and other house leaders indorsed the Britten plan, which has been indorsed by Assistant Secretary of the Navy David S. Ingalls, and promised to make smooth its way through the house.

The ban on the exportation of helium was due in part to uncertainty regarding the volume we could produce and a disinclination in some quarters to give up an advantage we possessed over all the world in the operation of lighter-than-air machines.

Assistant Naval Secretary Ingalls has made known that the records of the bureau of mines indicate that the government helium contracting plant near Amarillo, Texas, has been working only a part of the time up to its capacity and that several times production has been limited because of an oversupply, which eliminates all uncertainty regarding our ability to produce, and now a humanistic spirit prompts us to share our helium with the world that the danger of such another disaster as that which befel the R-101 may be averted.

An artist's model in New York has sued a big tobacco company for $250,000 damages, charging it with having used her picture in a cigaret advertisement and caused to be silhouetted beside it "a shadow of a grossly fat woman." Where's the ground for complaint for the showing of a contrast which should be pleasing to any woman?

A large bronze crucifix, erected on the Washington-Richmond highway fourteen miles from Fredericksburg to commemorate the first Catholic settlement in Virginia, is being made a target by unknown persons. Evidently the spirit of tolerance doesn't run high in the Old Dominion state.

It is predicted that the United Lutheran Church in America, in convention in Milwaukee, will deprecate "attempts" of the Federal Council of Churchs in Christ in America at influencing federal legislation. If the churches get to fighting among themselves they may soon hear the call to abandon politics and revert to religion.

Seeking a divorce, a young woman of Baltimore revealed that her husband had bet a friend $25 he would marry the first girl he met, that she happened to be the girl and they were married two days later. Two people like that should not be legally separated, possibly to wreck two other marriages.

Although it is not to be compared with the life loss, the R-101 disaster is said to represent an investment loss of $10,000,000, half of which was on the ship itself. An awful lot of money to be invested in a thing which may become the plaything of any little squall such as very probably was responsible for the tragedy of Sunday.

A Baltimore man, charged with desertion and non-support by a woman who claimed that she had married him three years ago, not only set up the defense that he had neither married nor lived with her, but also established his defense by competent witnesses. Women with imaginations like that are menaces to mankind.

Premier Mussolini says Italy has turned the corner and is on the way to economic recovery, but that it will be three years before the world will be enjoying the full measure of prosperity. Benito may know nothing more about it than many other economic doctors who have been feeling the world's pulse, but, at that, it's not difficult to believe that he may be more than half right regarding the time of complete recovery.

A St. Louis manufacturer proposes to start a colony along the shore of Lake Leman in Switzerland to test his plan to lengthen the span of life, which consists of going nude, eating only vegetables and fruits, sleeping face down and swimming from seventy minutes daily at the beginning of a 192-day course of training and gradually working up to twelve hours daily by the middle of the course. To be on the safe side there should be provision for examinations of the volunteer colonists by alienists.

ITCHING HANDS.

Editorial Opinion.

STRAINING FOR THE MILLENIUM.

A thief got into the Lateran museum the other day and stole some priceless antiques. There is crime, you see, even in the realm of the Duce. The French nation has just been "shocked" by the revelation that its magistrates and judges have been playing politics, with a Tammany vengeance. The staid population of London has gone mad over midget golf. The silliness of American tree-sitting is duplicated in England by rolling barrels and pushing baby carriages about on bets. They have laws against gambling over there, as unenforceable as laws against liquor over here.

After all, are not people much the same the world over? When you look into the matter, are Italians and Frenchmen and Englishmen, Germans, Scandinavians and Spaniards, any worse or any better than Americans, as a people? Only so far as environment shapes their actions. We Americans are strong on self-inspection and condemnation. The Puritans were that way. They fled from the wild life of England to the American wilderness; and there they wrestled with the world and the flesh and the devil, alone with their own God. This was the birth of our holier-than-thou attitude toward the Old world. Our isolation from Europe has sheltered and nursed it. We have convinced ourselves that because we do not breathe the miasmic atmosphere of Old world feuds and superstitions we have no superstitions or feuds of our own.

Other people find us, with our lofty ideals, which we do not live up to, a little hard to understand. We make life a good deal harder for ourselves by trying to bring in the millennius through a lot of laws we can not keep. If we lived a little closer to other peoples, as they do in Europe; if we breathed a little more air in common, would we not have less of the holier-than-thou feeling and considerably more of that meekness which former Ambassador Morrow thinks would become us? At any rate we should come sooner to a realization that we are not greatly unlike other human beings; and we should cease straining to advance the millennium, which we can't bring in and they do not try to.—Detroit Free Press.

The Word of God.

And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission. It was therefore necessary that the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these. For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us.—Heb. 9:22-24.

Complexion and Good Health.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

No personal possession can mean more than a beautiful skin. Fortunate is the person who is born with a skin of fine texture. He is doubly blessed if he has the good health that usually accompanies a good complexion.

Of late years in this country, great dependence has been placed on "aids to beauty." There are any number of good facial creams and other aids, which, thanks to publicity, are an open book to all who read. In spite of this, the number of persons with unsightly skin is legion.

Why is it so many young people have to go through long periods, sometimes years, of painful embarrassment on account of some skin disorder? The face may be marred with rashes, pimples, acne, eczema, and yet no particular fault can be found with the habits of the suffering individual.

Skins differ much in texture and in the size of the pores. We differ in the circulation of the blood and the quality of the blood stream.

The person who has a coarse, large-pored, greasy skin must be careful to bathe regularly and thoroughly. The skin must be kept clean if it is to function well. It can only do this when the pores of the skin are open and kept free from dirt and greasy substances.

The first thing of importance is cleanliness. The unhealthy skin must have the most vigorous treatment. A little dab of soap and water is not enough.

After the ordinary washing of the face, it is astonishing how much dirt is left. Did you ever try moistening a cloth with alcohol or cologne and rubbing it over the face? You will be shocked at the smudge left on the cloth.

Such a skin should have a thorough cleansing every night. Never go to bed without following a set rule. A good one is to wash the face and neck vigorously with some soap and plenty of warm water. Then cleanse the skin still further with diluted alcohol or other solvent of grease. After this apply a good cleansing cream and massage the skin gently. Be sure that the hands are scrupulously clean as well.

In the morning wash the face again with soap and water and rinse. Then massage the skin gently and press out the greasy substances of the pores and the blackheads. After this bathe the face in cold water. You will soon see a distinct difference in your face.

The person with a poor skin should follow a simple, nourishing diet. Take plenty of outdoor exercise. Do away with constipation if present. Keep the bowels freely open, for you must get rid of the toxic poisons of the system. Drink much water so that the kidneys will carry off the bodily poisons as well, for that is their function.

For the boy or girl who has a bad complexion the purest of milk should be included in the diet so as to get all the vitamins needed. They should learn to like green salads, and eat much of them. Cleanliness of the skin and the right diet can do much for you.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

JAY. Q—My back between the shoulder blades aches and at times has a "pricky" feeling. What is the cause?

A—You may be nervous or troubled with neuritis. For other information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

• • •

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 8—"The Rockefeller cathedral," as megaphonists of the yap wagon call it, is completed. Gracing a slight rise on upper Riverside drive, near Grant's tomb, its soft grey facade shoots up into the most restful spire in town, a spire comparable to any of Wren's in London.

In my opinion it is the only religious edifice outside of St. John's and St. Patrick's in New York that has the sublimity and warmth of Old World cathedrals such as St. Gudule or Rheims. The entrance is a replica of the Chartres cathedral and the whole effect is a Gothic masterpiece.

The official name is Riverside Baptist church and it was built by the elder Rockefeller for Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick and his congregation. The exact instructions are said to have been: :"Erect a fine church and send me the bill." The cost is estimated at from two to ten millions.

The new church completes a triad of distinctive religious structures the past year—the other two in the trinity being the Temple Emmanu-el and the Church of the Heavenly Rest on upper Fifth avenue. The executive offices of the Drive church will be in the tower.

And an interesting yarn is spun of the tower furnishings. The elder John D. on his way to Tarrytown one evening stopped in to look things over. He clucked his tongue and shook his head. Next morning workmen descended and removed everything in waiting vans.

Mr. Rockefeller had decided it was not nearly fine enough for such a magnificent exterior and that gives a general idea of the lavish manner in which everything has been done. The Rockefellers—father and son—have shown unusual personal interest in every detail of the construction work.

The senior Rockefeller visited it several times a month, strolled among the workmen to chat, ask questions and encourage them. He has an expert knowledge of stone masonry. The son was a daily visitor. This scrupulous attention doubtless contributed much toward the marvelous result.

• • •

But the biggest Rockefeller local improvement is, of course, the "Radio City" struggling for shape in heart of town. Progress at present is only shown in vacant stores across from St. Patrick's and temporary parking spaces and runt golf courses where buildings once stood. The section will have a "hard times" look for many buildings are untenanted waiting destruction. Scores received big bonuses and moved out immediately.

• • •

I recently heard a similie attributed to the Elder Rockefeller, which is as good as I ever heard. He spoke of something being as "plaintive as a lost sheep's baa."

• • •

There are no fuss and feathers about young John D. He walks up the avenue window-shopping leisurely every evening he is in town to his home around the corner in west Fifty-Fourth street. Many in his neighborhood do not recognize him. His home is not particularly pretentious. Around his doorway or loitering nearby are always two guardsmen in plain clothes. Mr. Rockefeller often stops to talk to a venerable street sweeper in his block. He is seldom seen leaving his home after dinner.

• • •

Those who know say John D., Jr., is the most dutiful of sons. He phones his father wherever he may be daily. He visits the family home at Tarrytown twice a week and father and son take long walks together about the Pontico Hills estate.

• • •

A Pike's peak in tonsorial luxury is hung up by a millionaire in Oyster Bay. Daily he sends a car to New York for a certain barber and pays him $10 for a shave and $15 twice a month for a shave and haircut.

• • •

Sign snooping today I snagged this one in the window of a Broadway automat: "Visit our other places."

• • •

Nor do I understand what it is about me that attracts coocoos. Waiting in a theater lobby for my wife, a haughty gentleman stepped up and said something like this: "Tell me, peasant, what theater is this?" I replied it was the Mansfield. He was thoughtful a moment, shook his head sadly and exclaimed: "What is to become of us?" And walked slowly away counting off his fingers like a priest piously telling his beads.

Spontaneous Generation.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

An endlessly fascinating problem, which scientists may be compelled to study until the end of time, is how life originally came about. The Fundamentalist is satisfied with the Biblical statement that God made Adam out of the dust of the ground. The scientists can not be content with that answer, which, from the scientific standpoint, leaves the problem unsolved. The scientist seeks to discover the how and the why, as well as the what, of the supreme riddle.

During the Middle ages, the alchemists busied themselves, sometimes patiently, sometimes impetuously, to the task of discovering some of the deeper mysteries of life, the philosopher's stone, the elixir of life, the transmutation of base into precious metals. They even set themselves the task of the creator; and sought to produce artificially in crucible or retort a human being—a homunculus complete in all parts and properties. It is passing strange that they should have set out upon this mysterious adventure without any advance knowledge of the composition of the creature they were trying to produce.

The scientist does not attempt to produce a homunculus. And for the very good reason that he knows that the first step is to discover the nature, qualities and properties of a homunculus. He must take a homunculus apart and find out what it is made of before he attempts to put these materials together to produce a homunculus. Of necessity analysis must precede synthesis.

If we go back to Aristotle, for example, we find that he was no further along, scientifically than the fundamentalist. He saw nothing unreasonable in the notion that even such highly developed organisms as worms, insects and some fishes could come into being from mud.

Such ideas as this, says L. L. Woodruff in the "Origin of Life," are voiced over and over again through more than twenty centuries by philosopher and poet, theologian and layman.

In his "De Rerum Natura," Lucretius says that "with good reason the earth has gotten the name of mother, since all things are produced out of the earth, forming in rain water and in the warm vapors raised by the sun."

Through Virgil and during the mediaeval period, students of nature believed that living creatures were spontaneously generated out of different sorts of dead matter or offal. Cardan, a scientists of no mean ability, and Swammerdam, author of the "Speculum Mundi," for example, entertained this curious belief: that a dead horse breeds wasps, a dead mule produces hornets, and a dead ass produces bumble bees.

As late as the seventeenth century, scientists entertained the fantastic belief in spontaneous generation. The first figure of importance known to history, to smash this persistent superstition, was Francesco Redi, eminent Italian scholar, physician and naturalist. By the simplest of experiments, he demonstrated that maggots never developed in meat to which flies were not allowed access and that the seeming transformation of meat into maggots was the result of flies laying their eggs on the meat.

From Redi stems one of the most fruitful, namely, that matter does not assume the scientific generalizations of modern times existing state, except under the direct influence of pre-existing living matter.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

A Washington Day Book.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Oct. 8—Recently the writer was privileged to run through the pages of what he considers a remarkable document.

The author—whose name for personal reasons will be withheld—calls it a diary. But it is more than that. Rather it is a day-by-day history of events which have and are transpiring in the national capital.

The historian of the future may well consider himself lucky if he is able to gain access to this work. Written simply because the author delights in that sort of thing, there are chronicled in this document events dating as far back as 1889.

Read the entry for April 6, 1917—that momentous day when the United States entered the World war. It is typical of the graphic style employed throughout.

• • •

"Bathed in moonlight, thronged with visitors tense with feeling—this describes Washington on this eventful spring night when the President of the United States rode from the White House to the capitol to address congress what had been summoned for special session.

"A squadron of cavalry escorted Mr. Wilson down Pennsylvania avenue. There must have been 50,000 people gathered in the shadow of the capital to see him enter and wait his departure.

"And what a scene in congress! Every seat occupied. The justices of the supreme court in the chairs. The visitor's gallery crowded. It was a sight never to be forgotten.

"And then the President spoke. For thirty-eight minutes he held his audience. He pledged our resources of men and wealth in defense of liberty throughout the world.

"'The world must be made safe for democracy—we have no selfish ends to serve. We desire no conquest, no dominion. We seek no indemnities for ourselves, nor material compensation for the sacrifices we shall freely make. We are but one of the champions of mankind.'"

It is easy to see that this entry was made in a moment of great enthusaism. To continue:

"At the conclusion of his speech the chamber resounded with applause. The justices of the supreme court arose. Senator Lodge came over and took the President's hand. Senators and congressmen cheered. Even in the visitors' gallery, where demonstrations are prohibited, there were cheering and waiving of flags.

"The common thought could be read in every one's face:

"'America has entered the World war.'"

Other events are recorded there in a style just as graphic. Personal sidelights on "big names"—not generally known—are set down in whimsical fashion.

Some Ohio Sobriquets.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Though some sobriquets are applied in the way of criticism, many have reference to praiseworthy qualities and on the whole to be so dubbed is a mark of appreciation of a public man. "Old Hickory," for instance, has reference to General Jackson's firmness.

Among Ohioans who have been given sobriquets are General William H. Harrison, "Granny;" Thomas Corwin, "The Wagon Boy;" Samuel Medary, "The War Horse of the Democracy;" Governor William Allen, "The Fog Horn," because of his remarkably strong voice; Governor Wood, almost forgotten now, "Tall Chief of the Cuyahoga;" Thomas Ewing, "Old Solitude;" General Ormsby Mitchell, "Old Stars," because of his knowledge of astronomy.

General Sherman was referred to familiarly as "Uncle Billy" by the soldiers serving under him, while sometimes, in their later years, he and his brother, the senator, were referred to as "Tecump and Resump" the latter referring, of course, to the senator because of his effecting specie payments after the civil war, as secretary of the treasury. H. P. Kennedy was called "King Bob" because of his firm ruling in part matters as the president of the Ohio senate. Judge Thurston had two—"Honesty" and "Snuff."

General Grosvenor was dubbed "Old Figgers" because of his election predictions. Governor Foster was called "Calico Charley," and Governor Foraker "Little Breeches," both, of course, by their political enemies.

PASTORS TALK OF PROBLEMS

First Meeting of County Ministerial Association Held in City Library.

Problems of the city and rural ministers were discussed by Dr. C. E. Turley pastor of Epworth M. E. church of Marion, and Rev. W. F. Lahr pastor of the Reformed church at Waldo, at the first meeting this fall of members of the Marion County Ministerial association at the library Monday. Several ministers took part in the devotional services which opened the session and following the meeting all of the members enjoyed a dinner in the Y. M. C. A. dining room. A short time after dinner was spent in reminescing. Rev. L. A. Weld, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, is chairman of the association and Rev. W. M. George of Wesley M. E. church, is chairman.

Dr. Turley compared the country minister to a spring of water pouring forth its life into the world. The rural church like the spring, he pointed out, is no larger than it was 100 years ago but pours out its life in sending leadership into the world. "The city and rural church have the same common task of bringing comfort to those in sorrow and leading men, women, boys and girls into conscious fellowship with Christ," he stated. Dr. Turley placed special emphasis on the preaching of Divine reality, eternal love of God the Father, sufficiency of Jesus Christ to meet every need of the human soul, the personality and power of the Holy Spirit, the Holy Bible as foundation of faith, the exaltation of the church of God in the world and Christian immortality.

"The city pastor faces the subject of mechanism while the rural pastor faces the subject of individualism," Rev. Lahr pointed out in his talk. The rural pastor's time and labor are so divided that he can not organize any definite plan to carry out the great project of the kingdom of God, he stated and cited the self-satisfaction and refusal to cooperate found in the rural pastorates as obstacles to progress. "Rural ministers crave fellowship which can be found in the association with the city ministers and this fellowship encourages the rural pastor to do his best in his work," Rev. Lahr said.

CLASS MEETS

Miss Lucile Martin Hostess To Group of Caledonia.

CALEDONIA, Oct. 8—The Happy Helper's class of the Church of Christ Sunday school met at the home of Miss Lucile Martin west of town Saturday night. There were six members present and the following guests, Vivian Likens, Mary Elizabeth Swain, Miss Brolier, Virgil Likens, Paul Swisher, Edgar Likens, Mr. and Mrs. Vinel Likens, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Martin and sons. The tenth chapter of St. John was read by the president, Lavonna Key. It was decided to close the membership and attendance contest at the next meeting. During the social hour a lunch was served and games, music and contests were enjoyed. Winners in the contests were, Lucile Martin, Lola Rorick, Mrs. Vinel Likens, and Richard Martin.

• • •

Miss Pearl May was given a pleasant surprise Saturday night when she came home from Bowling Green, where she is attending school, to spend the week-end with her parents. Upon her arrival she found several friends had gathered to assist her in celebrating her twenty-first birthday anniversary. A social evening was enjoyed. Miss May received a number of nice remembrances. A feature of the luncheon, which was served by her mother, Mrs. Joe May, was the birthday cake with 21 candles and Miss May's name.

Good Shoes Last

SOMEWHERE in Marion or the vicinity there is a good-sized lad who is minus a nice pair of shoes and he can have them back if he takes the trouble to communicate with the owner of the cistern on whose top he left them when he took his leave one night last week. The reason of this is that the owner of the house on South Vine street which he chose to visit, having boys of her own of the same age believes that the youngster had all the lesson he will ever need in attempting to play the role of a juvenile Jimmy Valentine. In fact she knows he has for one doesn't live with youngsters 12 or 15 years without being pretty much of an expert in making snap judgments. The temporary owner of the shoes is in something of a quandary as to what to do with them but she does know what she would like to have happen. She would like to have them, in some way or another get back to the real owner.

Needs a Medal

OCCASIONALLY one wonders just what the boss might be thinking of them and it's equally certain that bosses sometimes wonders what the hired help think of them, but for the most part things just move along in pretty much of a routine and only when something off the ordinary schedule happens do folk find things out. And some of them are interesting, some humorous, some ridiculous and some border on the pathetic. Our hat goes off to the youngster who not so long ago, wanted to see his boss who had been in a hospital for several months and rode his bicycle a good many miles in one day for just a few hours visit. A baseball game, football or air races would easily be the excuse for a boy of his years to make such a trip but to spend the short time he would have in a hospital room is just another proof that you never can tell what's going to happen next. And in these days when hitch-hiking is at its "palmiest"

Birds Not Welcome

SECTIONS of Marion which have been infested for several months with countless thousands of what were generally believed to be blackbirds are at last getting relief. The winged invaders are heading for warmer climes, probably to pick up recruits for next year.

Each succeeding summer and fall seems to bring the swarm back in increasing numbers, meaning increased grief to residents of neighborhoods where trees are most plentiful to provide the best roosting spots.

With departure of this year's colony under way, Addison Bain, one of Marion's authorities on such subjects, comes out with the information that the feathered pests have not been correctly identified. Only a small percentage of them are blackbirds, according to Mr. Bain. He estimates that between 60 and 80 per cent are sparlings, a species of bird that found its way to America from England several years ago and since then has been increasing alarmingly in number.

Mr. Bain predicts that eventually the sparling will become more of a problem than the English sparrow and says that it will probably become necessary in time to offer a bounty for keeping the new arrivals from getting beyond control

Miss Mary Elizabeth Mulrow and Robert Huber Schroeter Wed at Low Nuptial Mass

THE marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Mulrow and Robert Huber Schroeter was solemnized this morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic church. Rev. Fr. Thomas E. McKenney of Cleveland, officiated for the ceremony and was the celebrant for the low nuptial mass.

Palms and ferns formed a background of greenery for the baskets of roses and chrysanthemums which adorned the chancel and white roses filled the altar vases. The chancel was lighted with tall tapers held in seven and fifteen-branch candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Lucile Conarty played "Romance" arranged by Preston Ware Orem and John Lacey sang "O Salutaris" by C. Cremer. During the mass Mr. Lacey sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," by Lambillotte, "Ave Marie," by Millard and "Jesus, the Only Thought of Thee," and Miss Conarty played "Berceuse" by Carl Wilhelm Kern, "Eventide," by Preston and "Reverie in D Flat," by Rosana Weihe. For the processional and recessional Miss Conarty played the Lohengrin wedding march and the "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a wedding gown of ivory satin made princess style with long sleeves and finished with a v-neck. The long full skirt fell in a short train. Her veil of Duchess lace, fitted in a cap shape with a visor, and held with a chin strap caught with orange blossoms, was worn by the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. E. J. Schroeter, and his sisters Mrs. Bernard Brady and Mrs. Richard Edmondson at their weddings. Her satin pumps and short kid gloves matched her gown in shade and she carried a prayer book showered with lilies of the valley. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a plain gold ring which belonged to her great-great-grandmother, Marie Bingham of Ireland, and a diamond pin.

Miss Catherine Mulrow attended her sister as maid of honor and wore a gown of peach shade satin made princess style and her hat was in a capucine shade of transparent velvet. Her brocaded slippers matched her dress in color and she wore long lace mitts of the same tint. Her flowers were a bouquet of Talisman roses. Little Miss Catherine Brady, a niece of the bridegroom, attended the bride as flower girl and wore a frock of yellow crepe made peasant style and a hat of transparent velvet in the same shade. Her flowers were arranged in a peasant bouquet. John C. Schroeter attended his brother as best man and the ushers were Richard Edmondson, Don Miller, Carl F. LaMarche and Edward Schroeter.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast for 80 guests was served in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. The bride's table was centered with a basket of white roses and her bridal colors of peach and capucine were carried out in the decorations for the smaller tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Schroeter will spend their honeymoon in the east and after Nov. 15 will be at home at 12506 Edgewater drive, Cleveland. The bride wore for traveling a suit in Burgundy shade, with shoes and hat in the same shade. Completing her costume was a platinum fur scarf.

Mrs. Schroeter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mulrow of 225 Olney avenue and is a graduate of St. Mary's parochial school. For some time she has been making her home in Cleveland.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Schroeter of 417 East Center street. He attended St. Mary's parochial school, University school, Cleveland and Cornell university and is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Schoeter and children Eddie, Jack and Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard S. Brady and daughter Catherine, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Joyce, Don Miller, Mrs. Thomas H. Ward, Miss Stella Fahey, and Homer Cleary, of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Edmondson of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Artz of Cincinnati and Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Burns of Columbus.

Dorcas Circle Plans Hallowe'en Celebration

A Hallowe'en party Oct. 31 in the basement of St. Paul's English Lutheran church was planned by Dorcas circle at a meeting last night with Mrs. Paul Weber of Sheridan road. Routine business of the class was conducted, followed by a social hour in which Mrs. Laura Bell and Miss Sarah Bell won contest honors. Lunch was served by Mrs. Weber. The rooms of the home were attractive with fall flowers. Mrs. Haal Miller of Bennett street will entertain the circle Nov. 12.

Toledo Lecturer Is Speaker at Federation Club Meeting

THE duties of citizenship in relation to the economic problems of today were discussed by Dr. Stephen K. Mahon of Toledo, minister, lecturer and chautauqua speaker, in his address on "Citizenship in the Making" at the opening meeting of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs last night in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. Dr. Mahon who is a logical reasoner and forceful speaker held his audience for more than an hour as he drew a word picture of the background of civilization and its progress through the ages. Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer, citizenship chairman, introduced the speaker

Preceding the address Superintendent George A. Bowman of the city schools gave a brief talk on the renewal of the three mill school levy to be voted on at the fall election. Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, president of the organization, presided for the business session and Mrs. E. H. Morgan, literature chairman, announced plans for the next federation meeting.

"The law of nature and human nature, both of which are always found in history, never change and in this fact lies the greatest hope of our future," Dr. Mahon declared. He traced the progress of the world from the beginning of Hebrew history and pointed out that citizenship began in the United States with the coming of the Pilgrim fathers who sought personal and religious liberty.

War will end when human natur sees that war is war against hu Dr. Mahon prophesied, and he cite the great resources of the countr as an indication of better time than the country has ever dreame The dreamer, scientist and sai were pointed out by Dr. Mahon a essentials of citizenship in th country and these with the u changing laws of nature an human nature will modify the co ditions and make them better, h declared.

"We are faced today with an u usual situation and we do not kno what the economic situation is g ing to be" Dr. Mahon stated. "I is an age when we have mad money and we think of money i terms of success. There is no eas way out and you and I are goin to have to find that spirit that wo the battle of our forefathers i those early days of American civi ization. We know we are only i the making, that the present problematical and we hope for th future. After all what we are afte is the highest and best good for a concerned and as we take intere in it we may contribute to its con ing or by the absence of interest o our part we may postpone it."

BEAUTY IS YOUR REWARD WHEN YOU BANISH +SKIN CONGESTION

Complexion beauty is awaiting you . . . the clear, fresh beauty you've perhaps just missed because, unknown to you, you've been troubled with Skin Congestion.

Yet it's so easy to banish Skin Congestion. Deep-pore cleansing with Plough's Cleansing Cream is the quickest, most effective way. Dip your fingers into this light, pure cream and smooth it on your skin! Instantly it liquefies . . . penetrates deep down into the millions of tiny pores through which your skin breathes. Quickly it dislodges all impurities, bringing them to the surface to be easily wiped away. When your pores are free of dust, grime and make-up, they contract to normal size, and your complexion glows with radiant beauty and health.

The 50c size of Plough's Cleansing Cream contains more than twice as much as the 50c size and the 75c size is most economical to buy. And when you choose this marvelous "deep-pore cleanser" you are getting the finest quality at prices in keeping with today's trend to sensible spending.

+Skin Congestion denotes the presence of a hardened substance in the pores caused by the accumulation of dust, grime and make-up.

CHAPTER 32

The Murderer Cornered

[illegible] hall Mrs. Winslow was startled to come upon two [illegible] in subdued whispers; [illegible] at sight of her and [illegible] advanced toward her as she recognized Thorne.

"[illegible] wanted upstairs," she [illegible] none too graciously, but [illegible] Judge from her path.

"[illegible] a word with you."

"I am on my way to see Miss Chase. Let me pass, please."

Mrs. Winslow entered Elsa's bedroom [illegible] through the door leading [illegible]

"Where is Miss Chase?"

"[illegible] she went out on the terrace. [illegible] will wait, Mrs. Winslow. I will get her," and she sped [illegible] her room as Thorne [illegible] Mrs. Winslow.

The latter gazed in anger at the detective. "Why are you here?" she [illegible]

"I wish to see Miss Chase."

The room was large and airy, [illegible] arranged with its dainty furnishings and pretty hangings.

Close at hand lay a pair of shoes and shoe trees. One of the latter caught Thorne's eye and he looked at it more closely; then, his curiosity growing, he lifted it up—in shape it resembeld the ones he had seen in the box in Jack Winslow's workshop, even to the smudge on the wooden tree. On closer inspection, however, he saw that what he had taken to be a smudge on the tree was a Chinese character.

"I am sorry to have kept you waiting," exclaimed Elsa, as the trained nurse pushed the chair into the center of the room.

The older woman bustled forward. "It is important that I see you first, Elsa," she broke in. "I must request Mr. Thorne to leave us."

"I am sorry," Thorne smiled at the irate woman. "But it is imperative that I talk with Miss Chase before she makes her get-a-way"— pointing significantly toward the steamer trunk half-packed in a corner of the room.

"Get-a-way!" Elsa caught up the word, her face flaming. "What do you mean, sir, by using such an expression to me?"

His answer was delayed by the arrival of Arnold Winslow, followed by Ferguson and Inspector Mitchell.

"So here you are, Thorne." Intent on his own affairs, Winslow failed to note the attitude of the four people already in the bedroom, for Miss Kline had not left her patient's side. "Ferguson here,' indicating the gardener by a jerk of his thumb, "has just told me that Jack is living on a canal boat with old Sol Smith above the Lock Tavern club, and claims my offered reward of $10,000. Shall I give it to him?"

Thorne swung on Ferguson. "How did you get that information?"

"I got it off a note Mr. Jack wrote to she," pointing to Elsa. "Lambert left it on his pillow an' I jes' opened the envelope an'—an'—"

"Stole the letter inside it,' Thorne was studying th gardener intently. "If you want that reward, tell the truth."

"I is," Ferguson's lips parted in a sickly grin. "That's 'zactly how I got the news. I'm tellin' ye straight."

"Go on," urged Thorne softly. "Don't be afraid. Speak up, Ferguson, and tell them why you are not entitled to that reward."

"What? The gardener gazed at him in bewilderment, one hand plucking at his soiled shirt. "I don't get yer meanin'"

"No?" Thorne spoke with biting sarcasm. "Then I'll tell them why you are not entitled to that reward. It is because Jack Winslow isn't on the canal boat. And you know it, Ferguson because you were there just ahead of me."

"Who, me?"

"Yes, you." Thorne's voice rang out. "You've given yourself away, Ferguson, by forgetting to remove your false teeth."

With a swift and involuntary movement, Ferguson's hand went to his mouth. In place of the tobacco-stained, decayed teeth of the gardener, was his full set of even and perfectly white teeth.

"Hold him, Inspector." Thorne's tone was not to be disobeyed. "Now, Miss Chase, what's your connection with Ferguson?"

"There is no connection between us," she declared.

"But the same object brought you." Thorne took a step nearer the wheel chair. "To rob Mr. Winslow. Stop!" as she would have interrupted and his voice went relentlessly on, hammering into her ears like a miniature Niagara. "A cripple's disguise was a clever masquerade for the Dancing Silhouette!" Opening his hand he displayed the magazine page taken from Sara Kane's dying grasp. "The so-called Mrs. Lawrence had the goods on you, although, disguised as a man, you tried to bribe her to silence last night before she died."

"You are not a cripple?" Mrs. Winslow stepped forward, white and shaken. "So you killed Dr. Kane to conceal your secret."

"It wasn't her," Ferguson shouted, "but her confederate; Jack Winslow did it for her."

A cream broke from Elsa and she half started from her chair, only to fall back limply as the closet door opened and Jack Winslow came out of his hiding place. No one spoke as he advanced toward Ferguson.

"You, Ferguson," he spoke in little above a whisper. "What's your proof against me?"

"I went through the things you took from here to the canal boat." It was Ferguson speaking, but they would not have recognized his voice had they not been looking at him, it was so altered. "And there, Jack Winslow, I found the fire extinguisher you filled with the carbon monoxide gas—can you deny it?"

"No."

Elsa clutched the sides of her chair and gazed in agony at her lover as he pronounced the solemn monosyllable.

Ferguson turned to Inspector Mitchell. "Go to the canal boat and get the fire extinguisher. It's the final proof you need of who killed Kane."

"True," agreed Thorne quietly. "I have it here," and raising his hand he beckoned to Jim, his assistant, loitering in the hall, just outside the door. Stepping past Arnold Winslow and the inspector, Jim brought in a large package carefully wrapped and an envelope. Thorne took the latter from him.

"There is no human beast today so vile as the dealer in narcotics who stays clea nhimself but is willing to contaminate others with the poison he sells." Thorne faced Jack and Elsa, his face stern, unrelenting. "You, Elsa, and Ferguson, here, came to steal cocaine." He stopped and took from the envelope two cards. "That fire extinguisher bears the finger prints of the person guilty of selling narcotics and also of the murderer of Kane. In my office, I had this copy made," holding it up for all to see. "That finger print on the fire extinguisher tallied with another accidentally made in my office on Monday afternoon by Arnold Winslow."

"You lie, damn you!" Livid, swaying on his feet, Winslow faced them, a fiend at bay.

Thorne snatched up the wooden shoe tree.

"Here is my proof," he exclaimed. "Cocaine is concealed in this hollow wood, imported from China. Others, like this, are upstairs in the attic. Elsa and I found your cache, you dirty, yellow dog! The cache Kane and Ferguson were after, before you killed Kane with diabolic ingenuity."

Twice, thrice, Winslow tried to speak, then before anyone guessed his intention, his right hand flew up—the flash of the revolver was theri only warning before Winslow fell headlong to the floor, a bullet in his brain.

To Be Concluded.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

WENDESDAY. It was raining and cold too, and too cold, when me and Jubilee woke up this morning, and when I pushed him out of bed he tried to climb back in, and when I pulled him over to the window and opened it and he looked out and saw the rain coming down he looked at me like he thought I ought to be ashamed of myself. I was. But I had to let him down just the same. He ain't got sense enough to know that if I took him downstairs he would have to go out doors anyhow, and my folks would find out how so many flees get in the house and then he could never sleep with me any more, and that would be hard luck for both of us. A dog isn't brite. He chases cats when he ought to know better. He has caught too many cats already, and he wants to stay in bed when he knows, or ought to know, what would happen if he was caught; and it all wouldn't happen to him, either.

I guess Mush's wife was lucky all right that she didn't have any children. Suppose she had some and they looked like Mush or her. How could she love them? And everyone ought to love their children. When dogs have bum looking pups the man that owns them drownds them, but you can't drownd children, except Chinese childern. It seems kinda wrong to drownd children. But if I was a Chinese one maybe I would want to drownded.

When I went home after school to get a piece of pie or a piece of bread and sirup, the Lost Bag of Tripe's mother and kid brother, and Red's kid brother was there with his mother, and the mothers were all setting in the kitchen eating some coffee and cake, and I got a piece of cake and a glass of milk, but just as I was going to get busy Annabelle Lee began to holler like she was killed, and we all ran in the parlor where they wer and Red's kid brother told the mothers that he was playing he was papa, and he had turned Annabelle Lee over and had spanked her till she was red and his mother spanked him till he hollered louder than Annabelle Lee. Then the Lost Bag of Tripes' mother started home with her kid, and he was hollering because he was sorry for the others or something.

When I went outside where the bunch was the Lost Bag of Tripe outed me what I done to his brother, and when I told him he said it was a lie, and so I painted him sorry, and got [illegible]

Lillian Urges Madge to Make a Last Effort to Cure Phil of His Infatuation

I STARED at Lillian stupidly as she finished her answer to my question of what was to be done about Mary. She eyed me shrewdly for an instant, then laughed unmirthfully.

"'Aghast,' 'astounded,' 'uncomprehending'—you're registering all of them," she gibed. "You don't 'get me,' do you" Well' pull my spiel to pieces then and ask me about each separate item. 'Ask me!' Go on!"

She had given me time to pull myself together, and I faced her resolutely.

"First I want to know what you mean by my bringing Mr. Veritzen 'to the mourners' bench during this Christmas vacation.' He doesn't plan——"

"Oh! yes he does," Lillian replied promptly. "He told me a little while ago that he intended to go down to Long Island to that hotel near the farmhouse for the holidays, saying that he hated Christmas time in the city—can you imagine cosmopolitan Phil springing a spiel like that. He also moaned about how he missed a family gathering at holiday time. You'd better be prepared, old dear. He's going to hint so strongly for an invitation to your Christmas dinner and kindred entertainments that you won't be able decently to do anything except invite him."

"Oh! don't say that!" I exclaimed, as I shrinkingly visualized Philip Veritzen at the family Christmas celebration. "He'll simply spoil everything."

Lillian grinned sardonically at me.

"You sound as though you and Dicky and Junior had a sacred Christmas celebration which couldn't be shared by any outsider. Will you kindly count on your fingers the assortment of old and young which is already scheduled for your festive board. Item, husband, wife, cheild, wife's father, husband's mother, one niece and three nephews, suitor of niece, four family friends, itemized as three Underwoods even if one's name is Morton, and one Katherine Bickett—why! old dear you've simply got to have old Phil. You'll be thirteen at table if you don't. Unless—you want to ask Ede. Instead"—she laughed slyly.

I gave her a withering look.

"She would be all I need to make my Christmas complete," I said sardonically. 'But, I still stick to my guns. Everyone else you have named 'belongs' to the family. There won't be a jarring note unless that man——"

"Don't call the old dear such a profane name!" she admonished with a grin, then sobered as she saw my troubled eyes.

"Honestly, it won't be half so bad as you think. When Phil lays himself out to be 'nice' there isn't anybody can do it better. And he'll be on his best behavior. I don't know what the idea is. I'm afraid to hope that maybe he's unconsciously regaining the senses he appears to have lost since Princess Olina went back and getting in a more tractable frame of mind. Mind you, I say 'unconsciously'—he no doubt is planning all sorts of deviltment with his conscious mind. But if you have Mary's and Noel's interests at heart, I think you'll make a mistake if you don't hand out a Christmas dinner invitation to your revered employer. There's one comfort, you won't have to ask him to be a member of your house party. He made it most emphatic that he was going to stay at that hotel he likes so well."

"Can you tell me where I'd put him even if he invited himself for a sojourn at the farmhouse?" I asked with a mirthless grin.

"You'd manage, some way," she answered comfortably, "but fortunately you won't have to. You ought to be thinking about one thing, however, and that's what I said about 'bringing Phil to the mourners' bench' which seemed to puzzle you. It should be perfectly clear to you, and if it isn't, I'm going to repeat in words of one syllable what I've hinted and told you outright many times before."

She paused, looked me steadily in the eyes and then said slowly:

"If you cannot win Philip Veritzen to the cause of Noel and Mary, then it's hopeless, and you might as well let Mary grab what chance she can for fame and fortune. I know, it's a mean, thankless job, and Dicky will no doubt act like a hyena with the mumps for several weeks to come. But I'm banking on you not only to win the old boy over, but to tame him so he won't be everlastingly bothering you with his sheep's eyes and his compliments. Honestly, every time I hear him talking to you lately I want to lay back my ears and bleat."

3 PRISONERS START PENITENTIARY TERMS

One Gets 2 Years for Carrying Gun; Others $5 for Breaking Paroles.

Henry Blue, Negro, sentenced to a two-year term in the state penitentiary last week by Judge George B. Scofield in common pleas court, was taken to Columbus yesterday to begin his sentence. He was convicted by a jury of carrying concealed weapons.

Chester Whitt, convicted of automobile stealing, and Marion L. Trimmer, who violated a bench parole, probably will be taken to Columbus today to begin five-year sentences imposed upon them by Judge Scofield Monday after they broke paroles. Whitt was on a parole from Mansfield reformatory and Trimmer had been released on probation by Judge Scofield only a month ago when he pleaded guilty to stealing an automobile.

John Blue, charged with grand larceny, was being tried today in common pleas court, the last of the criminal cases on the present docket. He is being defended by Frank Wiedemann.

Blue is charged with having stolen a grip, belonging to Mrs Thad Hare, from the Union depot last August. He was arrested on Aug. 28. The grip contained approximately $200 worth of clothing

Police Chief Slain, Five Wounded, in Gun Fight

By The Associated Press

MURPHY, N. C., Oct. 8 Mack Carringer, chief of police of Murphy, was shot to death and five other persons wounded, three perhaps fatally, early today in a gun fight with three men suspected of robbing the postoffice at Coker Creek, Tenn.

Two of the suspected postoffice robbers were shot down and are not expected to recover. Police George Leatherwood, 35, was shot through the right lung and Policeman Burt Savage in the arm.

PRAISES DOCTOR AS INDIGESTION PAINS VANISH

"For seven years I kept trying medicines, hoping to get relief from indigestion," says Mrs. Grace Wheeler, 153 Church St., Highland Park, Detroit, Michigan. "Nothing really helped me. I got so I never felt quite right; was tired and weak. I would bloat and have awful sick headaches after every meal.

"Now it's a different story. I got back most of my lost weight in a few months and feel fine. Nearly everything agrees with me. When anything starts to disagree, a tablet of Diapepsin has me comfortable in a minute.

"My doctor ordered me to take these wonderful tablets and I sure thank him for his advice. They're just like candy to eat; but they work better than any medicine I could find."

For years, leading physicians have endorsed Pape's Diapepsin. All drug stores sell the handy boxes. Get one and the next time heartburn, headache or nausea appears, soothe your stomach and make digestion complete with one or two of the pleasant, candy-like tablets. If you would like a personal demonstration of their merit before buying, write "Pape's Diapepsin," Wheeling, W. Va., for a FREE trial box.

CURTIS TO CONDUCT WHIRLWIND DRIVE

Vice President To Deliver Nine Speeches in Two-day Tour.

By The Associated Press

BRIDGEPORT, O., Oct. 8 — A whirlwind campaign calling for nine addresses in two days was mapped out for Vice President Charles G. Curtis, who was due here this morning.

Curtis' schedule called for a 10-minute talk here and then a motor trip to Columbus, stopping enroute for addresses at St. Clairsville, Cambridge, Zanesville, Newark and Granville.

Tonight he will speak at a statewide Republican rally at Columbus. His stumping tour ends tomorrow when he will speak at the dedication of the battlefield of Piqua at Springfield, the sole occasion when he is expected to refrain from political subjects.

He was to be accompanied by United States Senators Simeon D. Fess and Roscoe McCulloch of Ohio.

PINKERTON DIES

Head of Detective Agency Expires From Effects of Gas Wounds.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—Allan Pinkerton, president of the Pinkerton national detective agency, died in Presbyterian hospital yesterday of complications resulting from being gassed in the World war. He was 54 years old.

He entered the service of the agency as an operative when he was 20 years old. At that time the agency was conducted by the two sons of the founder, Robert, who was Allan's father, and his uncle William. Upon the death of his father in 1907 he became associated with his uncle in management of the business. After William Pinkerton's death in 1923 the agency was incorporated and Allan Pinkerton became president.

FIST FIGHT ENLIVENS FILM COLONY BALL

Battling Ardor of Participants Cools to Simmering Point Today.

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 8—A flaticuffs exhibition between Ernst Lubitsch, prominent motion picture director, and Hans Kraly, film writer, which enlivened a ball given by Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford here last Saturday night, apparently had reached the simmering stage today.

Lubitsch and Kraly, once close friends, met at the grand opera performance here last night and acquaintances said many glares were exchanged.

Mrs. Helene Lubitsch, divorced wife of the director, accompanied Kraly to the opera. It was Mrs. Lubitsch who ended the Saturday encounter between her former husband and Kraly with a resounding open handed blow on Lubitsch's face. She accused the director of jealousy and said he did not want her to have other men pay attention to her.

Lubitsch, confirming reports of the battle, said he struck Kraly because the writer and Mrs. Lubitsch taunted him and ridiculed his dancing.

Kraly declared "I don't know what it is all about." He denied he had broken up Lubitsch's home, as the director asserted.

COUNCIL PASSES BOND LEGISLATION

Makes Minor Changes in Ordinance To Arrange for Sale of Securities.

Four issues of city bonds aggregating $68,670.51 for several street improvements now completed will probably be sold Nov. 1 or shortly afterward. Advertisements for bids will be published this week.

Minor changes in legislation of the bonding ordinance were made last night by council in a special meeting to make the sale of the bonds possible. Bids formerly received on the issues were rejected when the finance committee of council discovered the bonds cannot go on the tax duplicate in 1931, but must go on in 1932 for the first time. Consequently the date of maturity will be delayed a year longer.

The issues include the city's and property owners' portions of expense in constructing West Center street pavement from Oak street to Main street, and storm water sewers in Elm Heights, paving of Pennsylvania avenue and Homer street from Church street to Center street, and paving of Walnut street from Vine street to Delaware avenue.

Reports of delegates to the Cincinnati state convention of the Grotto were given by W. Don Davis, John T. Gano and L. E. Nebergall at the regular meeting of Kadgar Grotto, in Masonic temple last night.

Fifty members heard the reports. After a regular business meeting, lunch was served by William Yocum, steward.

L. E. Nebergall, Charles Bloomingdale and L. G. Sifritt are a committee to provide entertainment for the next meting of the Grotto, Nov. 4.

Man Killed in Rush of Unemployed for Work

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire

CANTON, O., Oct. 8—A man who was killed when he fell from the steps at the plant of the Bosshart Steel Corp., here, Tuesday afternoon during a rush of men seeking employment, was identified today as Joseph Kutasovcikv, 38, of Canton.

Kutasovcikv died from a fractured skull. His head struck a concrete pavement when he was shoved from the steps by the crowd of men who rushed the plant in answer to a "men wanted" announcement.

Sabina Schools Close on Account of Paralysis

By The Associated Press

WILMINGTON, O., Oct. 8 — Schools of Sabina, north of here, were closed today by county health officials and the village board of education, after 180 pupils refused to return to their studies following discovery of one case of infantile paralysis and two cases of diphtheria.

The case of infantile paralysis at Sabina brought to seven the total number in Clinton county which has resulted in closing of four schools.

The third grade of Smith Place school, in Wilmington, was closed yesterday by the superintendent of schools because of the epidemic. County officials previously had closed schools at New Vienna and at Martinsburg.

SUGGESTS PLAN

Labor Veteran Would Force Patent Owners to Pay Displaced Labor.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 8—Amendment of the federal patent laws to provide a weapon of defense for the workingman against the hardships of unemployment was a plan submitted to the American Federation of Labor convention here today for its indorsement.

The plan was contained in a resolution presented by Andrew Furuseth of the International Semen's union of America, a veteran of the labor group.

School Lunches One Topic on School Program

ATTRACTIVE dishes for school lunches will be a part of the program when Mrs. Emily M. Lautz presents her series of lectures and cooking demonstrations at the Star's annual cooking school party Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week in the Star auditorium.

Mrs. Lautz

Tested ideas on what are improved methods in housekeeping and how to use them will be presented each day by the lecturer who is experienced and sympathetic with the problems involved. Mrs Lautz, who is a graduate of the Fanny Farmer School of Cookery in Boston, knows the problem of the housewife from a practical standpoint and has a fund of helpful hints which play a big part in lessening the tediousness of household routine.

Mrs. Lautz regards her kitchen as a laboratory for the full development of cookery art But the kitchen can become a place of drudgery she believes with thousands and thousands of unnecessary steps if groceries and utensils are not conveniently arranged in equipment designed by experts to save useless walking and reaching.

The dining-room should be a charming place she believes, where the family can enjoy the natural sociability of mealtime. This need not involve immediate and elaborate refurnishing, but a knowledge of what should gradually supplant equipment on hand, is her theory.

The lecture starts promptly at 2 p. m. and the doors will be open each day at 1 p m. A half hour musical concert will precede the lecture each day.

CONFESSES SLAYING

Boy Tells of Killing School Matron for Revenge on Husband.

By The Associated Press

GLEN MILLS, Pa., Oct. 8—Alexander McClay Williams, 18-year-old negro inmate of the Glen Mills School for Boys, was held today as the confessed slayer of Mrs. Vida Robare, a matron at the institution which houses between 600 and 700 boys. The attractive house-mother was found dead in her bedroom last Friday with 38 stab wounds in her chest.

Williams after his confession was removed to a secret place of imprisonment to guard against a possible demonstration.

Revenge on Mrs. Robare's husband, an instructor at the school, for a reprimand, and a plan to steal her keys so that he might obtain a bottle of shoe polish from a locked closet, were motives for the slaying, Williams' confession said.

SCOUT EXHIBITION TO BE HELD HERE

Three Hundred Members of City Troops Expected To Participate.

Plans for one of the most impressive scout demonstrations ever presented in Marion, to be given in the First Presbyterian church Monday night, Nov. 3, were made when all scoutmasters of the city met with Scout Executive Walter Brown at the Harding Council headquarters on South State street last night.

A special court of honor for making higher awards in scouting, including star, life, eagle and veteran scout rangs, will be the outstanding feature of the meeting.

Roy Waddell is chairman of a committee to arrange for the event. He will be assisted by James Shipley, assistant scoutmaster of troop No. 3, James Baker, assistant scoutmaster of troop No. 6, and Lynn Kellogg, scoutmaster of troop No. 9 This committee will meet in headquarters next Wednesday to make detailed plans for the affair.

Scoutmasters from Waldo, Caledonia and LaRue were cooperating in the demonstration.

The public is invited to attend. All scouts of the city, numbering 300, are expected to attend.

FORMER UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR IS HELD

Odis E. Long of Ohio Wesleyan Charged with Highway Robbery.

By International News Service

AKRON, O., Oct. 8 — Odis E. Long, 40, attache of the United States internal revenue office here and former Ohio Wesleyan university instructor, was held in county jail today awaiting trial on charges of highway robbery.

Authorities claim that Long has confessed to having participated in robberies with two youths who are charged jointly with him. Long and the two youths, Earl Edwards, 18, and Oren Meons, 20, were arrested as they were riding in a stolen automobile, according to police.

"I was helping them (the two youths) to get a stake," Long is alleged to have explained to authorities. "They were going to leave."

Long said he graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1919 and that he was an instructor of mathematics from then until 1921. He has been connected with the revenue department for six years.

The holdups which Long and his companions are alleged to have engineered took place an hour before the government attache was scheduled to report for duty at the revenue office, police said.

Sundays Bring No Rest to Municipal Court

MUNICIPAL court authorities are having no end of trouble keeping their Sundays straight today. James Sunday has charged Jim Sunday, a former acquaintance but not a relative, with forging his name on a check from the industrial commission of Ohio and obtaining $20 that should have gone to James Sunday.

On the complaint of James Sunday, Jim Sunday was arrested by police, and will be arraigned in municipal court soon, probably on a charge of fraud.

Jim Sunday is booked as 39 years of age and of 781 West Center street. James Sunday lives in Columbus, but is a former Marion man, police say.

HOOVER HOME AFTER LONG SPEAKING TOUR

President Makes Half Dozen Stops Enroute at Request of Citizens.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—President Hoover returned to Washington this morning, tired but contented with receptions accorded him in the Southland which climaxed the most strenuous speaking tour undertaken since his inauguration.

Enroute to the national capital from King's Mountain in the Carolinas, where he made his fourth set address in six days yesterday, the President last night yielded to requests for nearly half a dozen stops of his train in one of the four states of the solid South that gave him a majority in 1928, and appeared with Mrs. Hoover on the rear platform to greet the crowds awaiting him.

At only one point, Charlotte, had a stop been scheduled—this at the request of Representative Jonas, a Republican running for reelection—but brief halts also were made at Atkannapolis, Salisbury, High Point and Greensboro, all in North Carolina. Crowds jammed the stations at each point.

MARION MAN GETS AIR POST

John Schroeter Named Assistant on Pan-American Lines in Southwest.

John Schroeter of 417 East Center street has been named assistant operations manager for the Pan-American Airways between Brownsville, Tex., and Mexico City, it was announced today.

Schroeter was scheduled to leave today for Brownsville. He will go first to New York City by train and from there will go to Galveston, Texas, by boat. The remainder of the journey will be made by automobile.

Duties of the position are to assist in the supervision of all the company's transportation between the two points. This includes passengers, mail and freight. The Pan-American Airways handles extensive government air mail contracts.

Schroeter recently returned from Europe where, in addition to traveling, he made a study of European air line operations. Part of his traveling was done by airplane.

The Marion man received a degree in aeronautical engineering last June from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His transport pilot's commission was obtained after a period of service a year ago at Kelley Field near San Antonio, Tex., after which he was given a commission as second lieutenant in the air corps reserve.

MARION MAN GETS MUSIC SCHOLARSHIP

William Dowler Given Full Time Award at Conservatory.

William Dowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dowler of Windsor street, has been granted a full scholarship to the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, according to word received here by his former teacher, Knox Dunlop.

Dowler left Marion last week for Ithaca, and tryouts for full scholarships were held Saturday. Dowler had already been awarded a part-time scholarship. He will study in the public school music department of the conservatory.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Oct. 9

THIS should be a day notable for substantial growth and progress, with both new undertakings and long-established enterprises feeling the impact of a stabilizing force. It is a time for pushing forward with diligence and determination, seeking the advice and assistance of elderly persons or institutions if need be. Although all fresh stimuli practically and successfully, yet a word of warning against purely personal entanglement may not be amiss.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of steady progress for all old enterprises and are encouraged to launch forth on new ventures with an assurace of firm foundation and substantial growth. Elderly persons and old institutions will lend willing ear to any pleas for advice or assistance. Be cautious in personal contacts. A child born on this day may have an enterprising mind stabilized by profound insight and the pronounced tendency to diligence, indomitable will and constructive effort in practical lines. Its personal life may have spectacular angles.

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

TWO N. C. O. classes are booked for Saturday's grid menu that should go far to determine about how the various league teams will finish in the scramble for the league bunting. Mansfield will clash with Galion in the feature tilt of the day in Mansfield and Ashland will make the trip here to do battle with the proteges of Bohyer.

Mansfield sports writers are heralding the Galion-Mansfield battle as one of the best of the season. Perhaps it will be, perhaps it will not. Whatever it is there is little doubt that it will be bitterly contested to the end. Galion was a much under-rated team at the beginning of the year but has developed into an aggregation of no mean ability. Stout and Smith can be depended on to furnish any opposing team with an interesting afternoon's work.

Just to give someone an opportunity to come forth with the old familiar "I told you so' in case the final result is different than predicted, we'er picking Mansfield to be a step nearer the championship after the Galion battle. It probably wont by by a large margin but a point's a point and Mansfield should get more than Galion.

As for the Harding-Ashland setto it looks like anybody's game. Ashland before the season was being touted as having championship possibilities. In fact Bill McKee of the Ashland Times-Gazette still thinks the Ashland team has a chance to crash through with a highly successful season. Thus far this year the Ashland boys have not performad as brilliantly as expected. The sad part of it is that it might come to life and flash the expected form against Harding Saturday. If it does Harding may take the fourth beating of the year. If it doesn't the iceal team stands a good chance of entering the win column for the first time this season.

The Harding grid personnel decided that it is time to beat somebody and has decided that it might as well be Ashland as anyone else. Such being the case we have our eight column head already set up for the football extra Saturday night.

FIGHT BETWEEN A'S, CARDS DOMINATED BY HILL PERFORMANCES

Battle for Title in '26 Last To Go Full Seven-Game Route.

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8—For the first time since 1926 a sixth world's series baseball game was scheduled today, with the Athletics and Cardinals renewing hostilities at Shibe park. There were seven games four years ago, when the Cardinals defeated the Yankees for the world's championship, and there will be seven games again if St. Louis stops Philadelphia today.

As it is, the National leaguers have contributed the best performance from their league in the last three campaigns. In 1927 the Pirates were stopped by the Yankees in four straight games and these same Cardinals had no better luck against the Yankees, in 1928. Last year the Chicago Cubs won one and lost four to the Athletics.

As the sixth game brought the baseball battles back across the Mississippi river there was no indication that the series would continue as anything but a test of pitching. Thus far it has been dominated by the moundsmen, a

While the above named teams are settling their differences in league games Shelby will be entertaining Willard in a non league engagement. Bucyrus will be resting up Saturday thinking about how Mansfield short changed them in the matter of points the previous week-end. It wouldn't be surprising to see several of the Buck town boys in the Harding stands in view of the fact that Ashland will clash with Bucyrus next Saturday.

CARNERA STOPPED IN TEN-ROUND BATTLE

Jimmy Maloney Punches Huge Italian to Convincing Defeat.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 8 — The flatic capabilities of Primo Carnera, here-to-fore either under or over estimated, were accurately gauged last night by Jimmy Maloney, Boston's favorite but unreliable heavyweight. Giving away 65 pounds to the Italian, Maloney clearly outpointed him in a furious 10-round slugfest at the Boston garden.

Maloney proved that Carnera does not possess a killing punch. He digested exactly 105 of the giant's blows and the only time he lost his footing was when he fell against the ropes after missing a wild "round house" right to the Italian's jaw.

The Boston battler also proved that Carnera was easy to hit. Maloney scored 102 times to the head or body of his huge opponent and 90 per cent of them landed cleanly. Most of Carnera's punches were short right or left chops to the head and body, struck after his brute force had pushed his 195-pound rival against the ropes or into a corner.

Maloney was on the short end of the 4-1 betting odds but he fought the greatest battle of his long ring career and his victory was honestly earned.

Carnera fought like a novice during most of the bout and the only time he troubled Maloney was when he had him against the ropes. As a boxer Primo, judging from his performance last night, is at least two years away from the time when he will prove troublesome to the occupants of the top rungs of the heavyweight ladder.

ADDED TO FIGHT CARD

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—A 10-round bout between Harry Fierro, Chicago bantamweight, and Kid Francie, Italian sharpshooter, has been added to the Stadium's card Oct. 14.

Al Singer, new lightweight king, will make his first Chicago appearance, with Eddie Mack of Denver as his opponent, while King Levinsky, slugging light heavyweight from the west side, will meet Tom Kirby of Boston.

HARDING DRILLS FOR GAME WITH ASHLAND

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star.

ANTICIPATING the fourth hard battle in as many weeks Coach Dewey Bohyer is putting his Harding High grid squad through intensive daily drills in preparation for the Ashland fracas Saturday. Ashland is bringing a more or less veteran team to Marion for the week-end engagement and promises to provide plenty of opposition for the local outfit. It may provide more opposition than the locals are able to withstand although at present the outcome of the game apparently is a tossup.

Bohyer is working hard to develop a backfield capable of more sustained power and greater versatility. In the three games played by Harding this season, the backfield has shown flashes of power which if kept up would undoubtedly enable the Marion school to defeat most of the league opponents.

In the Toledo Central game, the first of the season, Harding did not show particular promise. The team developed rapidly during the next week and although defeated by Galion 7 to 0 looked better than the team of the previous week.

In tackling Elyria last Friday night, Harding bucked an aggregation capable of whlloping most of any N. C. O. league combination. The Marion team lost 26 to 6 but played the best game of the season.

Since the opening game of the year the local squad has improved until it looks at present as if it had at least an even chance to mete out a defeat to the invading Ashland team. It will not be by any large margin however, if at all.

Backfield Shifted

Bohyer has used several backfield combination in an effort to derive the one of most strength but it is probable that when the Saturday clash with Ashland rolls around almost the identical team that started against Elyria will take the field again. (If the charley horse which has kept Dick Morgan out of uniform for several days leaves the quarterback before Saturday he may get in the starting lineup. Who will be replaced should Morgan break into the staring eleven is not certain. Either Wright or Hunt might be on the bench when hostilities commence should Morgan start

Wright so far this season has been used in a more or less irregular role. A cracked ankle kept him out of early season action but since the injured member has healed up he has shown more flash and deception in his running attack than any back on the squad Wright ripped off two runs in the Elyria game ,one for 40 yards on a lateral pass and one for 35 yards and touchdown on a forward heave by Bob Bush.

Line Fairly Strong

Harding's line, with the exception of the ends will probably be able to take care of most anything that the Ashland backs can think up. Junior Clay at left tackle will do everything expected of him and probably help out several other positions. Who will pair with him at the left guard is uncertain. Tubby Eckenbarger may occupy a guard post. Bob Smith, rangy right tackle, did not play the football of which he was capable in the first two games but in the Elyria game he showed much improvement and can reasonably be expected to be a tower of strength on the right side of the forward wall. Jevas or Skinner will probably be at a guard when the game starts.

If Sloan's back is not giving him too much trouble on Saturday he will more than likely be at the left flank. If Sloan is not in uniform Pickerel will probably cavort at the left flank. Hayes Newby is nearly certain to start at the right wing.

The backfield will probably be made up of Bush at full. Lindsay at one wing back with the other two posts being filled by Morgan and Wright or Morgan and Hunt. Eric Williams will be at the pivot post.

HACK WILSON GETS 1930 PLAYER AWARD

Bruin Slugger Unofficially Given Valuable Player Title.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8—Hack Wilson, slugging center fielder of the Chicago Cubs, has been voted the most valuable player of the National league by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Wilson, who smashed all National league home run records this year and dethroned Babe Ruth as the major league home run king, won the distinction after a close contest with Frankie Frisch, captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, Bill Terry, first baseman of the New York Giants.

The election, although made by the same committee that functioned on behalf of the National league in 1929, was unofficial inasmuch as the league last year abandoned its annual custom of picking the most valuable player and rewarding him with $1,000. However, William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, announced that the Chicago club would give Wilson the $1,000.

Wilson, although he received only one vote for first place, had a total of 70 points, five of the eight writers picking him for second place, one for third and another fourth. Frisch received four votes for first place and a total of 64 points, while Terry was the first choice of three of the writers and had a total of 58 points.

Wilson led both leagues in home runs with a total of 56. He created a new all-time major league record for runs batted in, totaling 190, and his batting average was .356. Frisch, whose all-around playing was a feature of the Cardinals' rapid rise to the top, batted .346, while Terry led the hitting list with an unofficial mark of .401.

WHAT—AGAIN!

Shires Considering Reentry into "Beak Busting" Activity.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—Now that the baseball season is ended, up pops C. Arthur Shires; the self-confessed great man.

Shires is considering resuming his winter trade as a professional fist fighter despite the edict of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, to stay away from the boxing business.

The former White Sox first baseman is working in a Chicago gymnasium, in ring togs, and tips the scales today at 190 pounds. He is going on a barnstorming tour with a team of all-American stars. After the tour finishes Oct. 21, Shires says he will be ready to give a lot of deep thought to the idea of returning to the ring.

NEWS FROM GRID CAMPS

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 8—Notre Dame's first and second teams today had a scrimmage engagement against the freshmen using the Navy style of football

• • •

EVANSTON, Ill.—Weather conditions have only a casual importance in Coach Dick Hanley's preparation for Northwestern's opening conference game with Ohio State Saturday. It rained all day yesterday, but the whole Wildcat squad, except Hank Bruder and Harry Kent, put in an afternoon of blocking and tackling in the mud.

• • •

• • •

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Illinois has a football engagement with Butler university Saturday, but Coach Bob Zuppke is doing his worrying about a week from Saturday when Northwestern plays at Champaign. Zuppke has added a search for centers and guards, to his hunt for another fullback.

• • •

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Purdue today worked on plays, mostly passes, calculated to function against an eight-man-defense line—something the Boilermakers lacked against Baylor Saturday. The Bears moved another man up to the line, and almost ruined Purdue's running game and Coach Noble Kizer is taking no chances on Michigan doing the same thing Saturday at Ann Arbor.

• • •

COLUMBUS, O.—A "stop Bruder" campaign is under way in Ohio State's football camp where the Buckeyes are polishing up for their all-important battle with Northwestern Saturday. Coach Sam Willaman's scouts reported that stopping Hank Bruder would go a long way toward halting the Northwestern offense.

Frank Waddey, a nifty outfielder prospect with Memphis of the Southern association, could make the baseball team in his school days.

"WATCH HEIDELBERG" IS CONFERENCE CRY

Student Princes Display Unexpected Strength in Humbling Wesleyan.

By International News Service

TIFFIN, O., Oct. 8—"Watch Heidelberg!"

That's the warning that is reverberating throughout Ohio these days following Heidelberg's surprising 25-to-13 victory over Ohio Wesleyan last Saturday.

Coach Ted Turney, who replaced Herman Sayger at the local institution this year, pitted his Student Princes against Wesleyan as the underdogs, but he had given a mediocre eleven an inexplainable something that had inspired it to an unexpected height, and Heidelberg won.

The Bishops, regarded as one of the strongest teams in the state and possible contenders for the Buckeye conference championship, were completely outplayed and outsmarted. Maybe the Bishops were over-confident before they lined up against the Princes, but that isn't probable because Coach George Gauthler doesn't teach football that way.

The only explanation we can find is that Heidelberg's 1930 grid is good — better than Wesleyan, and that's saying a lot. But figures don't lie and anyone is safe in saying that Heidelberg would be a serious threat in any college conference this season.

OLD GOLD VOTED BEST

by World's keenest TASTE TESTERS

By Robert Ripley, Himself

"Believe it or not . . . these men together earn over $250,000 yearly . . . on their sense of taste alone!

"They are expert coffee tasters . . . the world's Supreme Court on taste matters . . . and they have just put OLD GOLD through the toughest test any cigarette has ever faced!

"At my request, they sampled each of the four leading cigarettes with names concealed. Once . . . twice . . . three times. Rated them all . . . on flavor, aroma, general appeal.

"I was impressed when OLD GOLD won. I was stunned when I looked at the final score . . . their verdict.

"Believe it or not, the keenest judges of taste the whole world knows picked OLD GOLD two to one over its nearest rival!"

Believe it or not . . . Here's proof!

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

A generous supply of hickorynuts and black walnuts this year has been assured. An influx of hickorynuts this week had forced prices down to four and five pounds for 25 cents today. Contrary to common belief, the small hickorynuts are better than the large ones, and command fancier prices because of their juicy and tasty meats.

A good supply of grapefruit is now gracing market shelves The price is now two and three for 25 cents, a low price so early in the season.

Eggpant is cheaper today, selling at 15 and 20 cents a plant. Former quotations were between 20 and 25 cents.

Genuine Jersey sweet potatoes, supplanting West Virginia varieties, which have nearly disappeared, are commanding slightly higher prices than early shipments. Four and five pounds for 25 cents is the price range today

Bodies of R-101 Dead in Chapel at London

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Bodies of the 47 victims of the dirigible R-101 lay today covered with union jacks and flowers in the Westminster mortuary chapel, awaiting the final honors of their nation before burial in a common grave.

It was not until 3:30 a. m. that the last of the coffins were ranged side by side in the little chapel after a trip through misty streets from Victoria station, where Prime Minister MacDonald, members of the government, military representatives and a great throng of spectators met them as they arrived from Dover.

A memorial service will be held Friday at Saint Paul's cathedral, with the Prince of Wales representing King George, and members of the government present.

RALLIES OFFSET EARLY SLUMP

Wheat Scores Slight Gain Over High Mark of Yesterday.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—Influenced by reports of copious rains in Australia and improved crop prospects in Argentina, grain prices here averaged lower early today. However, Chicago offerings of wheat future deliveries lacked volume and the market showed rallying power, responsive to advices that large amounts of Canadian wheat remained unthreshed and were damaged badly. Opening unchanged to ¼ off, wheat values here sagged all around, but in some cases recovered afterward to above yesterday's finish. Corn started ¼@¾ down, and subsequently advanced with wheat

Despite an early downward trend shown by the Chicago wheat market, sellers of wheat were quick to reverse their market position when news came to hand that big quantities of Canadian wheat were being injured as a result of threshing delays Winnipeg messages to Chicago grain houses said that from Blaine lake to Tisdale through Prince Albert, a stretch of about 200 miles, practically no threshing had been done since Sept. 7 It was estimated that as a result 40,000,000 bushels of wheat remained to be threshed in the territory referred to, and that the wheat was badly sprouted.

Upturns from early declines in Chicago wheat showed at one stage a quick jump of 1½c from the bottom levels Meanwhile, unofficial estimates current regarding the domestic wheat supply and demand situation indicated that exclusive of farm board holdings and allowing but 150,000,000 bushels use of wheat as feed and 125,000,000 bushels for export the surplus margin of wheat available was only 40,000,000 bushels Overnight export demand, for North American wheat was again apparently at a halt. Oats followed wheat and corn, provisions went higher when cereals advanced.

pitchers' series to a degree unknown since 1920

Ten years ago when Cleveland and Brooklyn played, the losing team made no more than one run in any game. Three games resulted in shutouts and a run was scored in each of four by the defeated side. Cleveland won five games to two.

In 1905, when the Giants defeated the Athletics, four games to one every contest was a shutout. In the five games played in the 1930 series no more than two runs have been scored by the vanquished and this only once Two shutouts have been scored, one by each side.

Cards Won in '26

The Cardinals before the game today were just where they were in 1926 when they left St. Louis trailing the New Yorkers two games to three and moving into the stadium, won two games in a row and the world's championship.

Manager Charles E. Street pinned his faith on his young left-hander, William A. Hallahan, who blanked the Athletics 5 to 0 last Saturday. Hallahan came to the majors from the Texas league tagged with the nickname of "Wild Bill" but he has not shown a disposition to be wild in his big games

Philadelphia has known one great iron man in the past, Jack Coombs, one of the sturdy oaks of baseball. Coombs never lost a world's series game and won three in one series Earnshaw's build is something on the order of the oak but Grove is more like a tall, lean and extremely durable pine.

Before the start of the sixth game, many supporters of the Cardinals thought Manager Street might make a last minute shift either in his lineup or batting order. Jim Bottomley, the big first sacker of the Red Birds, has fielded brilliantly in the series but has made only one safe hit in 20 times at bat. He missed third strikes on his last three appearances at bat Monday, and has struck out eight times in five games

SHOVEL GROUP PLANS EVENTS

Extensive Schedule of Social and Athletics To Be Held During Winter.

Plans for one of the busiest seasons of social and athletic activity in the history of the Steam Shovel Athletic association were formulated yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the officers of the Shovel organization. W. Johnson is president of the group and Ross Wertz is vice president. Paul Boyd is treasurer and Frank Kemmerly is secretary.

Opening the fall and winter social calendar of the association will be a dance and party for members of the athletic association and their friends in the Shovel gym on Nov. 15. Following this event will be the indoor fair o fthe organization from Nov. 17 to 22. It will be held in the gym.

A party and dance is set for Jan. 24 with a Valentine party and dance Feb. 14. The closing dance of the season will be held in the gym on March 28.

Beside the dances which are being sponsored by the association there will be wrestling matches from time to time in the gym. The association is also planning to back amateur boxing, using local talent for the fights. It is expected that each of the amateur cards will contain about 40 rounds of boxing. The date of the first card has not been definitely set.

The association is sponsoring a departmental basketball league for company employees. Gym classes for both men and women employees will be organized soon. Eight company bowling teams are now competing in the Steam Shovel league.

A portion of the Shovel gymnasium is being made over to provide a recreation parlor and reading room for company employees. It will be open to the members of the association at any time. It is expected to have it ready for use by Oct. 20.

Besides the company activities already listed the association is considering the backing of an amateur basketball team composed of local talent. Plans for the cage organization have not been completed

One daughter, Mrs. J. J. Hinamon, preceded in death.

It only seems a little way
To that strange country,
"The Beyond,"
For it has grown to be the home of those
Of whom we are so fond.
We need not think of it as death.
It is but crossing with bated breath
A little strip of shore,
To find our loved ones waiting there,
More wonderful,
More precious than before. •

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their help and kindness during the sickness and death of our beloved husband and father, for the beautiful flowers, Rev. Swain for his consoling words, the singers, those who furnished cars or assisted us in any way.

Our Fur Workroom

Fur styles are somewhat Different this season. Perhaps you have a Fur Garment to be Re-fashioned or some Fur Repair Work to be done. We advise getting this work to us as soon as possible—you'll need your Furs for the Football Games and other Fall occasions. Our Fur workroom is managed by Miss Kathryn Darmody, who will gladly assist you in planning the remodeling of your Furs.
